Mamata Camp Lodges New Police Complaints Against Ritabrata Faction

The Mamata camp has reportedly filed fresh police complaints against the Ritabrata faction. The specific details of the complaints and the locations where they were filed are not yet public.

Sources indicate that a faction aligned with Mamata Banerjee has initiated new legal proceedings by filing multiple police complaints. These complaints are directed against individuals associated with the Ritabrata faction. While the exact nature and substance of these complaints remain undisclosed, they represent a fresh escalation of internal disputes within the political group. The filing of these complaints signifies a move towards formal resolution through law enforcement channels. Further information regarding the specific allegations and the jurisdictions where these complaints have been lodged is awaited. This development points to ongoing internal friction and the use of official channels to address it.
