Actress Welcomes Twins, Shares Joy with Grandparents

A 45-year-old actress has become a mother to twins, expressing immense joy. She facilitated a virtual interaction between the newborns and their paternal grandparents, who were deeply moved.

A 45-year-old actress is celebrating the arrival of her twin children. The new mother expressed her profound happiness on becoming a mother to two. In a touching moment, the actress introduced her newborns to their paternal grandparents via an online video call. The grandparents were visibly emotional upon seeing their grandchildren for the first time. Reports indicate that the actress has been actively shopping for baby items online. The virtual introduction allowed the grandparents to connect with the new additions to their family, despite the distance.

Tamil Nadu Universities Face Leadership Crisis: 12 Vice-Chancellor Posts Vacant

A notable concern within Tamil Nadu's higher education landscape is the vacant position of vice-chancellors in twelve state universities. These institutions are currently functioning without permanent leadership at the helm. The absence of vice-chancellors raises questions about administrative continuity and strategic decision-making within these universities. The higher education sector in the state is thus facing a significant challenge in terms of governance and operational stability. This leadership vacuum could potentially impact academic planning, research initiatives, and the overall functioning of these twelve universities. The situation underscores a pressing need for timely appointments to ensure the effective management of the state's educational institutions.

Supreme Court Highlights Legal 'Brain Drain', Proposes Fund for Junior Lawyers

The Supreme Court has taken note of a significant 'brain drain' occurring within India's legal profession. The court observed that many young legal practitioners face severe financial hardship in the initial years of their careers. This lack of a stable client base and limited earnings during the formative stages of their practice are identified as primary reasons for this exodus. The court's intervention aims to address these challenges and retain talent within the profession. In response to these concerns, the...
